Local knowledge, all over the world

When the personnel of an offshore construction site in the north African region were faced with visa difficulties recently, the project risked delay or even cancellation.

Thanks to our contacts and knowledge of the area, we were able to alter the crew change arrangements with minimum interruption to the work, allowing the project to continue on schedule.

IMC brings creative solutions to unique problems, cutting project costs and time, reducing complexity, and building trust through transparency.

Founded in 1996, we are brokers for the sale and purchase of new and second hand tugs, barges, jack-ups and other floating equipment.

We charter vessels for offshore renewable energy projects, reclamation works, aggregate transport, civil contracts and towage.

Based in Antwerp, Belgium, we operate worldwide to arrange the prompt and safe transport by sea and river of vital components for a variety of maritime projects.

As agents, we can dispatch tugs at short notice for the salvage and towage of vessels in distress, preventing loss of life, property, and cargo.

We supervise the legal, financial and recruitment aspects of all kinds of marine projects.

Clients or business friends? Over the years, IMC has acquired many customers who have become faithful friends of the business. We prize customer loyalty as a marker of the effectiveness and quality of our services.

Crisis response

In 2009, a VLCC lost power at the height of a storm in the South China Sea. This emergency presented the shipowner with urgent problems and risks.

IMC is available 24 hours a day, and has a global network of contacts.

When the vessel owners contacted us, we acted immediately to commission local tug operators on the other side of the world.

They were able to secure the large vessel quickly, while we monitored the operation from start to finish.

As a result, the vessel was brought to safety, the crew was saved from harm, the cargo was secured and financial loss was prevented.

International Marine Consultancy provides a complete package of services, bringing experience of all aspects of challenging marine projects and overseeing them from start to finish.
